CLASS WILL

We, the Senior Class of '51, realizing that the time is drawing near when we shall no longer attend Rector High School, do will and bequeath the following traits to our fellow students whom we leave behind.

Joan Twitty wills her voice and place in glee club to Rosaline Akers.

Jim Thomas wills his girl to any one who thinks he can take her away from me.

Mary Odell wills her ability to "Ride a Free Horse to Death" to any one in Mrs. See's study hall.

James Deniston wills his technique with the girls to Jim McCord.

Virginia Newton wills her "love" for Home Economics to Peggy Masterson.

Kenneth Deniston wills his ability to play hookie and not get caught to B. R. Reddick.

Laura Russell wills her ability to get along with people to Betty Birnimgham.

Weldon Hatcher wills his acting ability to Max Benson.

Norma Coats wills her ability to sing monotone to Felice Hamelback.

Joe French wills his "sleepy look" to Billy Carter.

Ruth Lacey wills her pep to Virginia Bearden.

Doyne Parrish wills his position on the Basketball team to Gerald Fitzgerald.

Vadalia Huggins wills her dimples and blue jeans to any one who thinks as much of them as she does.

George Barker wills his ability to charm the females to Paul Frets.

Gloria Rust wills her ability to play left guard on the football team to Nacy Lee, with hopes that she can tackle as well as I did.

Jerry Cooper wills his good English grades to Jim Dalton.

Nadine Davis wills her good times to the Junior Class, because her Senior year was so . . . . . interesting.

Helen Seay wills her love for her soldier to anyone who enjoys it as much as she does.

Louana Cossey wills her height to her sister Peggy. Gotta keep it in the family.

Pat Mode wills her blonde hair and blue eyes to Sybble Johnson.

Norma Binkley wills her math grades to Gene Collier, because he needs them.

Murl Joiner wills his mischievous ways to Junior Simpson.

Ted Wimberley wills his handsome features to Bill Hopper, in hopes he makes better use of them than I did.

Doris Carter wills her flirting ability to Sally Long. (Not that she needs it).

Bill Jewell wills his sweet ways to Charles Bain, in hopes that he can make better use of them.

Donzie Taylor wills her "love" for the domestic life to Glenda Davis.

Douglas Matheny wills his courteous ways to Larry Elmore.

JoAnn Thompson wills her position as Cheer Leader to Pat Holifield.

Carol Winchester wills her curly hair to Jackie Burns.

Jerry Derden wills his "sportsmanship" to Bill Lyles.

Margaret Green wills her ability to slip out of Glee Club to practice basketball to Peggy Little. I hope you never get caught, Peg.

Melvin Lawrence wills his cute smile to Johnny Brewer.

Joan Barkemeyer refuses to leave anything because she will need everything she owns at Draughons.

Geneva Thomason wills her Basketball ability to her sister, Winnie, and hopes that she can manage to sit on the bench just half as much as she did.

Bill Vangilder wills all his freckles to Bobby Demay.

Velius Simpson wills his "pleasing personality" to Don Berry.

Mary King wills her ability to type to Coleen Lamb.

Vonna Burns wills her quiet ways to Roma Nell Bullock.

Henry Williams wills his Casanova ways to Bill Smith.

John Wayland wills his love for sports to Jimmy Derden.

Thelda Parrish wills her red hair and freckles to Dorthy Page.

Albert Vangilder wills his Agricultural ability to Doyne Green.

Bobby Snyder wills his love for dear old R. H. S. to anyone who thinks he can take it.

Alma Thompson wills her roving eyes to Ruthie McCluney.

Grant Melrose wills his way with the teachers to Jimmy Marlar.

Faye Yancey wills all her "old flames" to Donna McCluney. She wants to keep the latest one.

Lindell Gatewood wills his place in the Senior Class to Arvon Stokes.

PROPHECY

Who knows what the future holds? Is it possible for a mere high school senior to know what lies ahead? Do dreams come true? These questions keep repeating themselves to me as I think about that—that dream I had last night. Would you like to hear it? Then listen.

The time was 1975. The scene was the home of the President of the United States—the White House. This was the fulfillment of a promise made by George Barker, that if ever he became President of the United States he would entertain his former classmates, the Rector graduating class of 1951, with a party at the White House. According to my dream, I was talking with President Barker when I heard someone at the door. In a few minutes two men and a woman stepped into the room. At first I didn't recognize them, but looking closely, it was easy to see that they were Grantland Melrose, a prominent physician of Memphis, Tennessee; Doyne Parrish, a major league baseball player; and Mary Odell, a reporter for the New York Times.

While we were talking about the good times we used to have at Rector High, the multi-millionaire, Bill Jewell, and his devoted wife, Doris Carter, arrived in a big limousine. Then Gloria Rust arrived riding the latest in transportation—an elephant. She had gained world fame as the African huntress who "brings 'em back alive" for the Barnum and Baily Circus. As we fed the elephant peanuts, Norma Coats, who became famous overnight when she sang "Mule Train" over television, drove up in her new 1975 Cadillac. Oh me! I can't seem to remember who was next—you know how dreams are. Oh yes! I do remember too, it was Douglas Matheny, a prominent Philadelphia lawyer, and his secretary, Joan Twitty. They were walking up the steps talking with Henry Williams, a philosopher equal to Socrates, when Margaret Green, who was an English professor at Arkansas State College, and Geneva Thomason, a telephone operator in Boydsville, Arkansas, arrived in a 1951 Buick.

By that time the conversation was really getting lively. Then two other former classmates, Joan Barkemeyer, Secretary of the Young Men's Business Club of Rector; and JoAnn Thompson, Secretary of Mitchell's Funeral Home of Rector, came in. But wait, let me think! There was someone behind them, a beautiful and well-dressed lady, but I don't believe I remember who she was. Oh yes! I do remember—how foolish of me, I should have known—it was Faye Yancey, a famous Conover Model.

At this point of my dream I remember walking over to the window, and looking out exclaiming, "Well look who's here!" It was two old maids, Thelda Parrish and Doris June Ward. Because they were always together during their high school days, I suppose they have refused to marry so that they can always be together. They are bookkeepers for a Chicago law firm.

Although the class had produced only one doctor, there were three nurses. They were Vadalia Huggins, Carolyn Winchester, and Ruth Lacy, who practiced their profession in the new Rector General Hospital.

Wondering about the identity of the distinguished looking gentleman in the uniform who appeared at the door, I sauntered toward him and found him to be Ted Wimberley, an admiral in the United States Navy. Nadine Davis, the wife of an Arkansas farmer and the mother of three children, was the next to arrive. A few minutes later, Kenneth Deniston, manager of a nation-wide trucking company, arrived saying that he had seen Murl Joiner about half a mile up the street cranking his old Model T Ford. Murl was a Used Car Dealer of Kennett, Missouri. He finally arrived at the White House. At length most of the classmates had arrived although I had not been able to meet all of them. Everyone seemed to be enjoying the entertainment furnished by President Barker which included the New York Symphony directed by Jerry Derden. The music was especially well enjoyed by Vonna Lou Burns, a private secretary for a Chicago executive, and Laura Russell, a bookkeeper for a large banking firm in New York. I also saw Alma Thompson, wife of a Chicago business man, and Louana Cossey, wife of a Chicago lawyer.

If my dream comes true there will be several farmers. I distinctly remember seeing Albert Vangilder and his partner, Bill Vangilder, owners of a 5,000 acre livestock-farm near Rector; also James Deniston, owner of a large dairy farm, and Jerry Cooper, a prosperous general farmer. Bobby Snyder and Melvin Lawrence were livestock farmers. Another one was Lindell Gatewood, a cotton farmer.

I remember seeing a few other classmates including John Wayland, a Detroit factory worker; Virginia Newton, the wife of a dairy farmer; Pat Mode, the world famous tight wire walker who at one time had broken every bone in her body and survived; Mary King, bookkeeper for Brumley and Landis Oil Company of Rector; and Helen Seay, a stenographer from San Francisco, California.

At this point of my dream I awoke, yawned, and fell back asleep. I dreamed that I saw a man standing by the window. I had a little difficulty in recognizing him, but then, like a flash, I knew he was Weldon Hatcher, a well-known psychiatrist, and one time head of the Little Rock State Hospital. I could not remember—in fact, I never took the trouble to investigate whether he was still on the staff of the Hospital or whether he had become one of the inmates.

Students Everywhere
Hundreds of thousands of students throughout the nation will treasure their Taylor-made Yearbooks for many years to come.
Thousands of teachers and school administrators welcome their Taylor-made Annuals as a necessary part of their Parent and Public relations program.
We are proud to have had a part in preserving the memories, traditions and achievements of the schools of America.
